KEYNOTE SPEAKERS:

Kirsten Anderson

Kirsten has been an award-winning entrepreneur for decades. She is now an International Speaker, consultant, business coach and founder of Integrate Play Solutions. In diverse industries Kirsten is asked to facilitate a variety of the toughest challenges for teams and leaders using LEGO Serious Play methodology. As the resident play expert on Global TV she was often labeled a Playologist sharing her eight pillars of the Playful Mindset to boost organizations bottom line.

An interactive keynote where you will connect, engage and explore creative problem solving of some of the challenges within the supply chain industry. In an age of constant disruption, the ability to continuously adapt requires us to play with possibilities.

How might we use our creative strengths to accelerate our goals?

How might we support each other through change?

How might we maximize our creativity and innovation?

Zaheen Nanji

One of most in-demand speakers on resilience in Canada today, Zaheen Nanji has shared her content-rich, entertaining, hard-hitting and memorable presentations to enthusiastic audiences such as HR, health professionals, educators and leaders.

Her compelling stories of suffering from a speech impediment to moving half way across the world as a teenager, without her parents, and just recently surviving breast cancer; has her audience laughing and tearing up at the same time.

Zaheen is a TEDx speaker and has been featured on the front cover of Positive Health Magazine, Harmony TV and on various broadcast media outlets in UK, USA and Canada. She's also a two-time best-selling and award-winning author.

Zaheen and her husband own Shanti Wellness & Laser Centre in Alberta, Canada.

Dr. Jennifer Walinga

Is a Professor in the School of Communication and Culture, Royal Roads University, and an Organizational Consultant with Integrated Focus Consulting. A Commonwealth, World and Olympic Champion rower, Jennifer draws heavily upon her experience as an elite athlete when facilitating personal and organizational performance. Her areas of teaching and research include organizational communication, strategic planning, and decision-making grounded in theories of optimal performance, creative insight, and leadership. She is currently facilitating projects in both the public and private sectors with a special emphasis on health and education.

Andrew Jennings

Andrew is a Senior Manager in Deloitte's Supply Chain & Network Operations service line with over 10 years of consulting and industry experience. Andrew has deep experience in supply chain management where he has led several business transformations in Canada and the U.S. Andrew's areas of focus include demand planning, sales & operations planning, replenishment, production scheduling, procurement, and transportation planning.

Gerald Ford

Jerry has been involved and engaged in supply chain for over 40 years and is a honorary life member of Supply Chain Canada. Always curious and willing to learn and share, Jerry is uniquely positioned to make this session both enjoyable and thought provoking. Jerry has worked for over 100 companies and in various sectors. Included in the list are, The University of Waterloo, The City of Cambridge, IBM Canada, Open Text, The Cooperators, Denso Manufacturing, Proveer and Kinetic GPO just to name a few.

Jerry has served as President of the Ontario Institute of Supply Chain Canada, President of two local chapters of the Association and advised on 3 different program advisory committees (Conestoga College, Mohawk College and Fanshaw College)

What is not always known about Jerry is that he taught a variety of courses for Conestoga College from 1984 to 2018. He spent most of his time teaching human resources and technology topics.

In 2012, Jerry founded QCsolver, with the intent to help automate various supply chain back-office practices and administrative procedures.

In 2017, Jerry joined Kinetic Group Purchasing as their Director of Supplier development. In 4 short years, Kinetic has grown to have hundreds of members in every Province and in every public sector.

PRE-SYMPOSIUM SEMINAR

Garry Priam- Mossa International

Garry Priam is a Professional Speaker, Change Management Professional, Organizational Leadership and Team Development Specialist, and Italian author. He is a Certified Prosci™ Change Management Practitioner, with a Computer Science Degree from the University of Manitoba, and a Certification in Advanced Project Management from Langara College in Vancouver. Prior to starting his consulting company, Mossa International Incorporated, Garry played professional basketball in Europe and lived in Italy for 9 years before moving to Vancouver. Garry helps guide companies and their people to success by strengthening operations, enhancing leadership and change management initiatives and building winning teams by using analogies from his professional playing days on how to win in the corporate world as teams do on the court. Some of Mossa International's clients include: Kal Tire, Container World, The Original Cakerie, Jim Pattison Group, Translink, Daiya Foods and Lululemon.

This highly interactive seminar will examine how Supply Chains are currently operating and how to effectively plan for Recovery Post COVID. All of us have all been affected by the pandemic which has altered how we work and live with the "new normals". Everyone has reacted differently and the affects on Global Supply Chains have caused major disruptions.
