Senior Supply Planner

Industry: Consumer Goods

The jobs just keep rolling! Argentus is working with another new client in the Consumer Goods space, this time on a sole contributor-level search. This client is an award-winning Consumer Goods company, working within a fast-growing vertical. Today, they're looking for a Senior Supply Planner to help along their Integrated Business Planning (IBP) function!

Working out of the company's facility in Central Eastern Ontario (exact location confidential for now), the Senior Supply Planner will take on a vital role in IBP. You will work to optimize replenishment of certain supplies with the goal of balancing the overall planned supply against forecasted demand. Working collaboratively with a number of internal stakeholders, you will develop and manage the overall supply plan for the company's production. You will work to correct any supply disruptions or conflicts, working with the Supply Chain Management team specifically to assess supply from the perspectives of markets, plants and safety stock. In addition, you will use the company's internal processes to write off any damaged or obsolete goods or products, while also controlling the various SKUs to make sure that they adhere to the overall process for lifecycle management. This is a continuous improvement role as well, where you'll be working with internal stakeholders to recommend and deploy improvements in processes including Demand Driven Replenishment, Flow deployment and others.

This is a senior-level sole contributor role for an accomplished Supply Planning Professional. Our client is looking for an individual with at least 5 years of experience within Supply Planning, specifically with a background in Consumer Packaged Goods, Food Production, or Pharmaceutical. APICS, SCMA, or CPIM designation is also preferred.

If this sounds like you or someone in your network in Central Eastern Ontario, please reach out to Argentus with a current resume today! Call 416 364 9919 or email a current copy of that resume to recruit@argentus.com
