

Manager, Purchasing Services Toronto Police Service

The Toronto Police Service (TPS) is responsible for delivering policing and community safety services to a municipal population of almost 3 million, and up to 6 million people each day as the economic and cultural hub of Canada. The TPS has been engaged in transforming the way policing is delivered in Canada's largest urban centre, with the objective of delivering modernized police services that best meet the needs of the city's communities in a fiscally responsible manner. The TPS is seeking a highly motivated and experienced purchasing executive to support this high profile organization in the procurement of over $100 million of goods and services annually.

Reporting to the Director of Finance and Business Management, the Manager Purchasing Services will provide leadership, customer service and ensure best overall value to the Service through the provision of fair, equitable, accessible and competitive procurement processes while protecting the reputational and financial best interest of the Service. You will have responsibility and accountability, subject to Board policies, for adherence/compliance to the Purchasing by-law. You will develop procurement partnerships with public sector organizations and develop procedures including forms that govern the purchasing process.

As the ideal candidate, you have experience in leading and supporting purchasing teams to deliver results in a complex and changing environment. You bring related experience in strategic procurement management (preferably with a large-scale public organization) and in a supervisory/management capacity. You have in-depth knowledge of contract management with proven strength in vendor negotiation. A hands-on professional, you thrive in a service oriented, politically sensitive environment who can balance the needs of the organization with available resources.
